THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1789.

LIVERPOOL, March 7.

A GENTLEMAN, who is just arrived from Ireland, informs us, that he has been most severe gales of wind for more than a month past, and that in Cork, in the parlour of his hotel, near the Exchange, there was four feet water, and in some of the streets the water was seven feet deep.—A palace being driven loose against the new bridge, opposite the custom-house, and threw down two or three of the arches, and damaged it very much, fortunately the accident happened in the day time: it was from 3 o'clock, A. M. to 9 o'clock, P. M. before the waters fell.

A brig, captain Murphy, from Cork to Limerick, after being out 7 weeks, is got into Crookhaven:—the last food that supported them for 12 days, was a dog and a cat.

A curious fact.—The mate of the Kitty, captain Huston, arrived here from Virginia, informs us, that on Saturday the 20th September 1788, being in lat. 36. 2. N. a passenger on board, having his watch in his pocket, went in the head, and lost it overboard: on the Friday following, being in lat. 36. 40. N. they catched three dolphins, the largest of which was 5 feet 4 inches long, 2 feet 6 inches round, and weighed 42 pounds; in the belly of which was found, to the astonishment of the whole ship's crew, the passenger's watch.—The distance run per log, was 380 miles.

Sunday [illegible] night a very [illegible] battle was fought in a field near Wrexham, between a watch-maker and a hair-dresser.—After twenty-five rounds, the main spring of Mr. Time-gone proved too strong for poor Curl, who gave it in—by

LORIENT, February

The post communication from this port to the continent of the American states is now broken up, and in consequence the vessels built for that purpose are put up for sale. Some American agents have purchased Le Courier d'Europe, Le Courier Americaine, la Dilligeante, and La Postillon; all fine vessels of 14 guns each, and so exceedingly well qualified for sloops of war, that it is very extraordinary they should have been disposed of. The Swedes are the purchasers of the other six, which are still larger.

LONDON, March 5.

Nothing could possibly be more incommode to opposition, than the recovery of the king. A noble lord, suppposing his appointment to the lieutenancy of Ireland certain, had bespoke all his liveries, which were uncommonly ornamented with lace. They were actually finished, and ready to be picked up. The new favourite's coach-maker indeed was less precipitate in his operations. A splendid carriage, lined with rose-coloured satin, was ordered, but countermanded before any progress in the work was made.

His majesty has already begun business by signing a number of commissions, and other official papers, which have been for some time only wanting that completion.

We hear that since his majesty's happy recovery, in that spirit of piety which has always marked his character, he has composed a form of prayer and thanksgiving for himself.

The king continues well! Anxious again to view his subjects, he would have perhaps come down to the house on Monday next. But better counsel was prevailed. The crowds, which loyalty would naturally have brought together from all quarters, in or out of London, might have been so immense, and their joy upon the occasion so eager, that such a scene would perhaps be too much for the first feelings of the father of a people! He has yielded therefore to counsel, upon this occasion. The first appearance of his majesty will be at the Levee. On Tuesday the lord chancellor will open parliament with a speech from the king. Mr. Pitt has had another audience. The bishop of Worcester also, Sir Joseph Banks, lord and lady Harcourt, and lady Pembroke, as well as all the princesses, have been admitted.

NEW-YORK, May 1, 1789.

YESTERDAY took place, according to the resolution of the two houses of congress, a ceremony of the introduction of his excellency GEORGE WASHINGTON to the presidency of the United States.

The scene was extremely solemn and impressive; we imagine the public cannot be more satisfactorily informed than by an unembellished recital of the events, and a simple picture of the figures which composed it.

At nine o'clock, A. M. the clergy of different denominations assembled their congregations in their respective places of worship, and offered up prayers for the safety of the president.

About twelve o'clock the procession moved from the house of the president in Cherry-street, through Dock-street and Broad-street, to Federal Hall, in the following order:—

Colonel Lewis, supported by two officers,
Captain Stagg, with the troop of horse,
Artillery,
Major Van Horne,
Light infantry, under captain Harsin,
German grenadiers, under captain Scribe,
Major Blekes,
The infantry of the brigade,
Major Chrystie,
Sheriff,
The chaplains of the senate,
The PRESIDENT and his
The committee of the representatives,
The honourable Mr. Jay, general Knox, Chancellor Livingston, and several other gentlemen of distinction.

Then followed a multitude of citizens.

When they came within a short distance of the Hall, the troops formed a line on both sides of the way, and his excellency passing through the ranks, was conducted into the building, and in the senate chamber introduced to both houses of congress immediately afterwards, accompanied by the two houses, he went into the gallery fronting Broad-street, where, in the presence of an immense concourse of citizens, he took the oath prescribed by the constitution, which was administered to him by the honourable R. R. Livingston, Esq. chancellor of the state of New-York, who immediately after he had taken the oath, the chancellor proclaimed him president of the United States.—Was announced by the discharge of 13 guns, and by loud repeated shouts; on this the president bowed to the people, and the air again rang with their acclamations. His excellency with the two houses then retired to the senate chamber, where he made the following

SPEECH:—

Fellow-citizens of the Senate, and of the house of representatives,

Among the vicissitudes incident to life, no event could have filled me with greater anxieties than that of which the notification was transmitted by your order, and received on the 14th day of the present month.—On the one hand, I was summoned by my country, whose voice I can never hear but with veneration and love, from a retreat which I had chosen with the fondest predilection, and in my flattering hopes, with an immutable decision, as the asylum of my declining years: a retreat which was rendered every day more necessary as well as more dear to me, by the addition of habit to inclination, and of frequent interruptions in my health to the gradual waste committed on it by time.—On the other hand, the magnitude and difficulty of the trust to which the voice of my country called me, being sufficient to awaken in the wisest and most experienced of her citizens, a distrustful scrutiny into his qualifications, could not but overwhelm with despondence, one who inheriting inferior endowments from nature, and unpractised in the duties of civil administration, ought to be peculiarly conscious of his own deficiencies. In this conflict of emotions, all I dare aver is, that it has been my faithful study to collect my duty from a just appreciation of every circumstance by which it might be affected. All I dare hope is, that if in obeying this call, I have been too much swayed by a grateful remembrance of former instances, or by an affectionate sensibility to this transcendent proof of the confidence of my fellow-citizens, and have thence too little consulted my incapacity as well as disinclination for the weighty and untried cares before me, my error will be palliated by the motives which misled me, and its consequences be judged by my country, with some share of that partiality in which they originated.

Such being the impression under which I have, in obedience to the public summons, repaired to the present station; it would be peculiarly improper to omit in this first official act my fervent supplications to that Almighty Being who rules over the universe—who presides in the councils of nations—and whose providential aids can supply every human defect—that his benediction may consecrate to the liberties and happiness of the people of the United States, a government instituted by themselves for these essential purposes; and may enable every instrument employed in its administration to execute with success the functions allotted to his charge. In tendering this homage to the Great Author of every public and private good, I assure myself that it expresses your sentiments not less than my own; nor those of my fellow-citizens at large, less than either. No people can be bound to acknowledge and adore the invisible Hand which conducts the affairs of men, more than the people of the United States.—Every step by which they have advanced to the character of an independent nation, seems to have been distinguished by some token of providential agency. And in the important revolution just accomplished in the system of their united government, the tranquil deliberations, and voluntary consent of so many distinct communities, from which the event has resulted, cannot be compared with the means by which most governments have been established, without some return of pious gratitude, along with an humble anticipation of the future blessings which the past seem to presage. These reflections arising out of the present crisis, have forced themselves too strongly on my mind to be suppressed. You will join with me, I trust, in thinking, that there are none under the influence of which, the proceedings of a new and free government can more auspiciously commence.

By the article establishing the executive department, it is made the duty of the president "to recommend to your consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient." The circumstances under which I now meet you, will acquit me from entering into that subject, further than to refer to the great constitutional charter under which you are assembled, and which, in defining your powers, designates the objects to which your attention is to be given. It will be more consistent with those circumstances, and far more congenial with the feelings which actuate me, to substitute, in place of a recommendation of particular measures, the tribute that is due to the talents, the rectitude and the patriotism which adorn the characters selected to devise and adopt them. In these honorable qualifications, I behold the surest pledges, that as on one side no local prejudices or attachments, no separate views, nor party animosities, will misdirect the comprehensive and equal eye which ought to watch over this great assemblage of communities and interests: so, on another, that the foundations of our national policy will be laid in the pure and immutable principles of private morality; and the preeminence of free government be exemplified by all the attributes which can win the affections of its citizens, and command the respect of the world. I dwell on this prospect with every satisfaction which an ardent love for my country can inspire. Since there is no truth more thoroughly established, than that there exists in the economy and course of nature, an indissoluble union between virtue and happiness, between duty and advantage, between the genuine maxims of an honest and magnanimous policy, and the solid rewards of public prosperity and felicity; since we ought to be no less persuaded that the propitious smiles of Heaven, can never be expected on a nation that disregards the eternal rules of order, and right, which Heaven itself has ordained. And since the preservation of the sacred fire of liberty, and the destiny of the republican model of government, are justly considered as deposits, perhaps as finally staked on the experiment entrusted to the hands of the American people.

Besides the ordinary objects committed to your care, it will remain with your judgment to decide, how far an exercise of the occasional power delegated by the fifth article of the constitution, is rendered expedient at the present juncture by the nature of objections which have been urged against the system, or by the degree of inquietude which has given birth to them.

Instead of undertaking particular recommendations on this subject, in which I could be guided by no lights derived from official opportunities, I shall again give way to my entire confidence in your discernment and pursuit of the public good.

For I assure myself that whilst you carefully avoid every alteration which might endanger the benefits of an united and effective government, or which ought to await the future lessons of experience; a reverence for the characteristic rights of freemen, and a regard for the public harmony, will sufficiently influence your deliberations on the question, how far the former can be more impregnably fortified, or the latter be safely and advantageously promoted.

To the preceding observations I have one to add, which will be most properly addressed to the house of representatives. It concerns myself, and will therefore be as brief as possible.

When I was first honoured with a call into the service of my country, then on the eve of an arduous struggle for its liberties, the light in which I contemplated my duty required that I should renounce every pecuniary compensation. From this resolution I have in no instance departed. And being still under the impressions which produced it, I must decline as inapplicable to myself, any share in the personal emoluments, which may be indispensably included in a permanent provision for the executive department; and must accordingly pray, that the pecuniary estimates for the station in which I am placed may, during my continuance in it, be limitted to such actual expenditures as the public good may be thought to require.

Having thus imparted to you my sentiments as they have been awakened by the occasion which brings us together, I shall take my present leave; but not without resorting once more to the benign Parent of the human race, in humble supplication, that since he has been pleased to favour the American people with opportunities for deliberating in perfect tranquillity and dispositions for deciding with unparalleled unanimity on a form of government, for the security of their un-on, and the advancement of their happineſs; ſo His Divine bleſſing may be equally conſpicuous in the enlarged views, the temperate conſultations, and the wiſe meaſures, on which the ſucceſs of this government muſt depend. GEORGE WASHINGTON.

His excellency, accompanied by the vice-preſident, the ſpeaker of the houſe of repreſentatives, and both houſes of congreſs, then went to St. Paul's chapel, where divine ſervice was performed by the right reverend Dr. Provoſt, biſhop of the Epiſcopal church in this ſtate, and chaplain to congreſs.

The religious ſolemnity being ended, the preſident was eſcorted to his houſe, and the citizens retired to their homes.

In the evening was exhibited, under the direction of colonel Bauman, a very ingenious and ſplendid ſhew of fire-works, the various kinds of which, want of time will not permit us to particulariſe. Betwixt the fort and the Bowling-Green ſtood conſpicuous, a ſuperb and brilliant tranſparent painting, in the centre of which was the portrait of the preſident, repreſented under the emblem of fortitude; on his right hand juſtice, repreſenting the ſenate of the United States, and on his left wiſdom, repreſenting the houſe of repreſentatives. The arms of the United States, and ſeveral figures and decorations were painted with great taſte and judgment, in the front of the ſtructure. The count de Mouſtier's houſe was elegantly illuminated, and a variety of tranſparent paintings were exhibited. His excellency Don Diego de Gardoqui's houſe alſo diſplayed a great aſſemblage of beautiful figures, executed in the moſt maſterly and ſtriking manner, and which attracted conſiderable attention from the vaſt multitude of citizens aſſembled to view the various ſcenes of the evening.

In this ſketch of the proceedings of the day, we ought not to omit that Mr. Dohrman's ſhip, the North-Carolina, was handſomely dreſſed, and at ſun-ſet ſhe diſcharged thirteen cannon in honour of the day, and in the evening was brilliantly illuminated.

Nor ought we to be unmindful of the truly beautiful and ſumptuous ſcenery that was diſplayed in the front of the theatre.

The ceremony of this memorable day completed the organization of the federal body.—Every honeſt man muſt feel a ſingular felicity in contemplating this day—good government, the beſt of bleſſings, now commences under favourable auſpices—We beg leave to congratulate our readers on the great event.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.

The following method of raiſing COTTON is given by a perſon who reſided in the Weſt-Indies, alſo in South-Carolina, and has tried the ſame in this ſtate, where it came to perfection—a ſample of which is now in his poſſeſſion.

Take the middle of April, if the ſpring be forward, for preparing the ſoil, which is done by hoe-plowing, or laying the ground in ſmall ridges, or potatoe hills, which prevents the ſoil throwing out a crop of weeds, and gives double vigour to the powers of vegetation. The latter end of April, or the beginning of May, when the froſt is fully out of the ground, are thought to be the propereſt ſeaſon to plant the ſeeds, when the rains have penetrated the earth; there is every chance of ſucceeding in getting the plants ſo ſtrong as to reſiſt the dry weather.

Put the ſeed in a tub over night, and pour thereon warm water, ſtirring them about; the good will ſink, and the falſe ſeed will ſwim on top, which throw away. Plant them at 3 feet apart, 5 or 6 ſeeds in a hole, in a ſtreight line; the lines to be about 8 feet apart; when ſo cloſe, the trees are better protected from dry weather, the ground being ſheltered by their branches.

When the plants arrive to 14 or 16 inches high, they are then to be topped; a dry day muſt be choſen for the purpoſe, and about one inch of the upper part of the plant is lopped off, as well as the principal branches. This operation produces a number of branches to grow from the principal ſtem, and ſpreads the tree, without permitting it to run into high wood. At this time it ought to be hilled up, and a ſtrong moulding given, in order to ſecure it in an upright ſituation when the rains come. It will be then neceſſary to top all the trees that have grown above 3 or 4 feet high, and reduce them all to an equal height, permitting the branches to ſpread horizontally, to enjoy that ſituation uninjured. Cotton ſhould never be permitted to riſe higher than 4 or 5 feet, as the pods in their green ſtate form a great weight, and break down if they are too tall, by every breeze of wind.

When the ſeaſon for gathering the cotton arrives, the whole attention ought to be in gathering it—take none but what is fully open and dry, never intrude on the half opened pods; the wool ſhould hang looſe, in a ſtate of ſeparation from the pods; when ſo gathered, it ſaves a great deal of labour in whipping it, which is very tedious, and injures the ſeed: the wool ſhould be laid under cover, to dry the ſeed. When brought to the gin, it ſhould be expoſed to the ſun; for the drier it is, the eaſier it will paſs through the gin.—Cotton grows on midling good ground.

N. B. When the caterpillars attack the cotton in the early part of the year, they may be permitted to fly off unmoleſted; but if they come when the tree begins to bloom, they muſt be deſtroyed, or they will ſpoil the crop: if the land is clear, ſimply ſhaking them off the tree will be ſufficient, as the ants will then devour them; but if the ground be full of weeds, they muſt be killed as you take them. A crop of early Indian corn may be planted between the cotton, when it is eſtabliſhed, and may be gathered in before the corn.

Extract of a letter from Liſbon, to a merchant in this city, dated 6th March, 1789.

"A fleet conſiſting of an 80 gun ſhip, 2 frigates, 2 brigs and 1 cutter, under the command of commodore Joſe de Mello, are under orders for ſailing; they are to cruize on our coaſt and block up the gut of Gibraltar. This will proteſt the navigation of thoſe nations which have thought it degrading their dignity to purchaſe the friendſhip of ſuch banditties."

RICHMOND, May 7.

By an expreſs juſt arrived from the county lieutenant of Monongalia to the honourable executive of this ſtate, we are informed, "that on the 23d ult. two parties of Indians attacked nearly at the ſame time two families on Dunker creek, about twenty or twenty-five miles from Morgan's-town, and killed one man out of one, and the man, his wife, and two children, which was the whole of the other family. The alarm given to the inhabitants of that part of the country by this murder, hath become very ſerious, and unleſs ſome ſpeedy aſſiſtance is given, it is the opinion that Monongalia river (which runs through Morgan's-town) will be the frontier in a ſhort time."

PUBLIC SALE of the following valuable real eſtates.

VENETIAN,

WILL stand for MARES this season at FRANCIS TOLSON, Esquire's plantation, in Prince-George's county, 5 miles from the ferry opposite Alexandria, at five guineas each mare, and a dollar the groom, or three guineas each mare, and three and nine-pence to the groom, if paid by the first of August, but will not be answerable for accidents or escapes.—Good grass for mares at half a dollar per week. Venetian is a fine bay, fifteen hands and an half high, with length and bone in proportion; he was bred by Sir James Pennyman, bart. of Yorkshire, and got by Doge, his dam by Jennison Shafroe Snap, sire of Go-under-Gnawpost, Dacey and other good runners, his grand-dam by old Fox; Doge was got by Regulus, son of the Godolphin Arabian, his dam by Crab, his grand dam by Dyer's Dimple, which was got by Leed's Arabian. Venetian, at five years old, won the king's plate at Newcastle, and the fifty pounds for all ages, the same week, beating Mr. Fenwick's famous mare Spider Brusher, and several others, fifteen days after he won the king's plate at Carlisle, beating lord Surry's famous horse Bon-Mot, and run second to High Flyer at York.

To be SOLD, at PUBLIC SALE, on Wednesday the 20th of May next, if fair, if not the next fair day, at Messieurs Wallace and Muir's stone house on the Dock,

A QUANTITY of DISSORTED MERCHANDISE, the remainder of the late Mr. JOHN JOHNSON's store. The terms of sale are ready money only.

3X ROBERT JOHNSON, Administrator.

ROMULUS,

A BRIGHT bay, nearly sixteen hands high, remarkably strong, handsome and active, will stand this season at Mount Stewart, near South river church, and cover mares at three pounds, and five shillings to the groom. ROMULUS was got by Sweeper, his dam by the imported Ranger, his grand-dam by Ariel, his great-grand-dam by Otiello, out of an imported mare. Good pasturage will be provided for mares at 1/9 per week, but will not be answerable for accidents or escapes. WHEAT, CORN, OATS or TOBACCO, will be taken instead of the cash at the present market prices. w4 3

Charles county, April 6, 1789.

ALL persons having any claims against the estate of JOHN EDEN, senior, Esquire, late of St. Mary's county, deceased, are hereby requested to exhibit the same, that they may be paid; suits will be commenced against all persons indebted to the estate whether on protested bills of exchange, bond, note, open account or otherwise, neglecting and withholding payment, after six weeks notice in the Baltimore and Annapolis papers. 6w

5 WALTER STONE, Admr. de bonis non, of JOHN EDEN, late, Esquire.

NORTHERN ECLIPSE,

WILL stand for mares this season at Londontown, near Annapolis, at two guineas each mare, and a dollar to the groom, the money to be sent with the mares. Pasturage for mares at half a dollar per week, but will not be answerable for accidents or escapes. This horse is a chesnut, fifteen hands and an inch high, not handsome, but he has some of the best English running blood in his veins, with bone and action. 6w

JOHN CRAGGS.

NORTHERN ECLIPSE was got by Otterly's famous Eclipse, and out of Ameryllis. Ameryllis was got by Adolphus, son of Regulus, and out of Lodge's roan mare, which was got by Partner (the first and most famous stallion then in England) her dam by Baboon, which was got by Badger, her grand-dam by old Traveller, which was sire to the duke of Cleveland's Dainty Davy, which won successively five gold cups at Richmond, in Yorkshire, her great-grand-dam by Snake, then the most capital stallion of his day. This is a true pedigree, as witness my hand.

RICHARD BEARD, jun. Executor.

RAN away from the subscriber, a young NEGRO MAN, called DAVY, on the 13th of March, 1789; his dress is an osnabrig shirt, and cotton waistcoat and breeches; it is probable he will change his dress as he has other cloaths; he is an artful, deceiving fellow, about 5 feet 3 or 4 inches high, and stole a large sum of money two or three days before he went off: it is thought he is gone off with his overseer, ROBERT JACKSON, who is gone away with Joshua Pearce's wife. Whoever takes up and secures the said negro, shall be entitled to EIGHT DOLLARS REWARD. tf

ELIZABETH RAWLINGS.

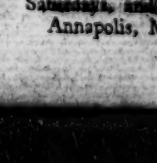
The beautiful HORSE ROEBUCK,

WILL cover mares this season at the subscriber's plantation in Charles county, at the low price of five pounds currency per mare, and one dollar to the groom, but if the money is paid when the mare is taken away, three pounds, and one dollar to the groom, will be taken in lieu of the five pounds. It is useless to insert his pedigree as it is well known, but it may be seen at his stable. ROEBUCK's stock is remarkable, both for the turf and saddle; I believe equal to any in the state. Good pasturage is provided for mares that come a distance, at two and six-pence per week, and great care will be taken of them; but I will not be answerable for escapes or accidents. 8w

WILLIAM M. WILKINSON.

Charles county, March 26, 1789.

Twenty Dollars Reward.



RAN away from the subscriber's quarter in Loudon county, early in last month, a negro man named GEORGE, he is about 26 years of age, about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high, his nostrils are remarkably wide, he sometimes complains of a wart on the bottom of one of his feet, which makes him a little lame; he is a likely sensible fellow. He had on a green jacket and overalls, osnabrig shirt, an old hat, shoes and stockings, and took with him a Dutch blanket, a blue broad cloth coat and breeches, a blue jacket without sleeves, and sundry other cloaths—He has been seen near this town since he ran away. Whoever will apprehend the aforesaid negro, and deliver him to the subscriber, or secure him in any gaol, so that he may be got again, shall receive the above reward, and if taken out of this state and brought home, all charges paid.

PROPOSALS,

For Printing by Subscription,

BY

In TRENTON,

THE

CONTAINING

The OLD and NEW TESTAMENT;

WITH THE

Apocrypha and Marginal Notes.

CONDITIONS.

I. This work, to be contained in one large volume, Quarto, of nine hundred and eighty-four pages, will be reprinted page for page with the Oxford edition, on a beautiful new type, and good paper. An index will be added, and also the Scripture measures, weights and coins.

II. The price to subscribers, for the volume well bound, four Spanish dollars, one dollar to be paid at the time of subscribing, the remainder on delivery of the book.

III. The work to be put to press as soon as three thousand copies shall be subscribed for, and to be finished without delay.

The Editor has been encouraged, by a number of respectable characters, to offer the above proposals to the public, under a conviction that a handsome American edition of the Bible, in Quarto, will, at this time, be both seasonable and acceptable, as no part of the money will go out of the country.

This consideration, it is hoped, will be an inducement to subscribe, and of course promote the more frequent reading of this most invaluable book in private families. He therefore wishes to attract the attention, and obtain the countenance of people of all denominations; not doubting, but that, in the execution of the work, he will be able to give ample satisfaction, both as to its accuracy and neatness.

Subscriptions will be received by Hugh Gaine and Edmund Prior, New-York; by Joseph Cruikshank and William Young, Philadelphia; by Townsend and Patton, Baltimore; and by the editor in Trenton.

It is requested, that the leading characters of all the different denominations of Christians in the United States, who may feel disposed to promote this undertaking, will, as early as may be, grant their assistance in procuring subscriptions, and that the several printers of news-papers in the union will be pleased to insert the above proposals in their papers. 2?

To all whom it may concern.

Mr. Isaac Collins has, for many years last past, been, and still is, printer to the state of New-Jersey: Having by this means had the more frequent opportunities to see his work, I have had abundant proof of the accuracy and correctness of his publications, as well as of his remarkable attention to business.
